Audience

We want to know who our users are. We don't like boolean options here, so a qualitative descriptive paragraph illustrating if you are working with human rights defenders, journalists, or students is very useful. If possible, include gender diversity as well.

Number of participants: _____

Venue Notes

Describing the venue is helpful to understand the context of your audience and what is needed to improve your training next time. Share with us some notes about it (for instance, if it is a community center, has internet, etc).

Activities Done

Tell us about the activity you just did, which tools did you cover, what was the main goal for the activity. Feel free to use bullet points.

Questions from the group

List here up to 10 questions that the group brought during the training.

Feedback

Feedback is the best way to improve Tor products and your training.

About the training

List the participants' feedback about the training (for instance: if the participants need more training sessions in the same topics, if they asked for more tools on privacy and security, etc).

About Tor in general

List the participants' feedback about Tor here (how they believe Tor can support their work, and they expect from digital security tools, etc)

About Tor tools

List the participants' feedback about the Tor tool they learned and installed here (example: were participants able to install the Tor tool? Did it work after installation? If it didn't, please list what device - model and operating system - was the participant using, as well as the kind of problems they experienced. If possible, also share the error log. If you were able to troubleshoot and solve the problem, please share it).

How can Tor support you better next time?

Add anything that can be useful for you, feel free to use bullet points.

Please send us this feedback filled to ux-team@torproject.org. Thank you!
